SATURDAY, AUGUST 31, 1745.

Extract of a private Letter from Dusseldorf, dated August the 31st, 1745.

HERF have been so many different, and some of them such absurd Accounts, of the Elector Palatine's Conduct, with regard to the Court of Vienna, that I flatter myself I shall do you a singular Pleasure by setting these Transactions in their true Light; in which it is impossible ever shou'd appear, from the superficial Accounts published in Foreign Gazettes; the Authors which have very seldom an Opportunity of knowing the Truth, in Cases of this Nature; and very few as little Inclination to set it down fairly, if they know it; which is the Reason that when the News Papers find their Way into Germany, we are absolutely amazed at the strange Stories we meet with in them, as not being able to conceive whence Intelligence can be derived; which often tempts us to believe, that they supply the Want of proper Information, by the Quickness of their own Inventions. But to come to the Point.

It must be owned, that on the Approach of the Duke's Army, his Serene Highness, the Elector Palatine, sent the Baron de Furtembergh to execute a Commission of Importance from him to the Grand Duke; but for what Reason his Royal Highness desired seeing that Nobleman, I cannot pretend to inform you. The Fact however is certain, that he could obtain an Audience; of which, as soon as he became sensible, he demanded of one of the Grand Duke's Ministers, Whether it might not be possible to acquaint him with his Commission by the Canal of the Elector of Mentz? To which he receiv'd no other Answer than this, That his Excellency was at Liberty to take, in that respect, whatever Measures he thought proper; with which short Return he came back to Manheim, and having made his Report of the Reception he met with, was ordered to go to Mentz, to pursue his former Instructions.

On his Arrival there, he found as great, or greater Difficulties, than he had met with in his former Nation; and, by degrees, Disputes arose so high, that the Elector Palatine thought proper to order him to continue his Negotiation. It is from this Time we ought to date the final Determination of the Elector, to secure himself, the best he could, against the Relevants of the Court of Vienna, without giving any longer to Applications of this Nature. In the mean time, the Grand Duke's Army had advanced into his Country, and had demanded, and received Contributions in the Four Bailiwicks of the Palatinate: But upon the Elector's coming to this Resolution, he issued an Order to his Subjects not to pay those Contributions any longer, let the Consequence be what it would; which was certainly a Stroke of Bravicks the Grand Duke did not at all expect.

This obliged the Grand Duke to send General Luchefi to Manheim, whose Business it was to represent to the Elector the absolute Necessity he was under of exacting the Contributions he had imposed, to be levied by Military Execution; and the Concern it gave him to find such a Kind of Proceeding necessary. To this the Elector replied, That when he sent his Minister to the Camp of the Great Duke, he was in hopes some Expedient might have been found to have prevented coming to Extremities; that he had suffered his Subjects to be paid for some Time, in Hopes that his Royal Highness, of his own Accord, would have desisted from such unreasonable Demands; but that, since it was otherwise, he was determined to acquiesce no longer under such Treatment, but to oblige his Oppressors to act so, as that the World might see in what Situation his Subjects were since the Arrival of the Austrians upon the Rhine. General Luchefi took great Pains to expostulate with his Serene Highness, to shew him that he saw Things in quite a wrong Light, and to convince him, that there was far from being an irreparable Breach between him and the Grand Duke. To this the Elector, and his Ministers, pretended to listen with great Attention, and express'd a great Desire of knowing upon what Terms Things might be compromised. His Excellency believing them well inclined to a Treaty, deliv'red himself very freely upon that Subject; affirming, That nothing could give him greater Pleasure, than being the happy Instrument of reconciling the two Courts. On his returning to the Camp, and the Subjects of the Elector remaining obstinate in the Refusal of Contributions, the Grand Duke ordered them to be levied by Force; which the Inhabitants in a great Measure prevented, by bringing in great Quantities of Provision and Forage, and supplying the rest in Ready Money; which being supposed to be done with the Consent, or, at least, by the Connivance of the Elector and his Ministers, it was hoped, and expected, that a Treaty would have ensued.

But no sooner had the Court of Manheim Intelligence that some Part of the Contributions had been levied by military Execution, than immediately a Complaint was transmitted to the Diet of the Empire at Frankfort, setting forth, That the Palatinate was ruined, and eaten up by the Austrian Troops, for no other Reason, than because the Elector had furnish'd Auxiliaries to the late Emperor; which was an Act perfectly agreeable to the Constitution of the Empire; which, consequently, was deeply wounded by these Acts of Violence and Oppression, used with no other View, than to compel his Serene Highness to give his Vote at the ensuing Election for the Grand Duke, in direct Repugnance to the Golden Bull, and other fundamental Laws of the Germanick Body. To the Memorial which contain'd this Complaint, was tack'd the Heads of the Conference with General Luchefi, under the pompous Term of the Articles prescribed to his Serene Highness by the Court of Vienna; and upon all this, is grounded the Elector's Protest against proceeding to an Election till his Grievances were redress'd. Thus you see the whole of this Contrivance represented fairly, and without Prejudice to either Party; and, at the same Time, you must discern how little Truth there was in the Reports spread from time to time, as if the Elector had propos'd, or the Court of Vienna had offered, him a Neutrality. How far this Conduct of the Court of Manheim might proceed from the Influence of French Councils, is neither in my Power, or if it were, does it become me to determine; but, undoubtedly, if this, and other German Courts, were governed either by the Maxims of true Patrioticism, or a just and rational Concern for their particular Interests, our Troubles would soon be at an End, and the German Empire, which has been brought so low by these Distractions, recover its ancient Strength and Lustre.'

I R E L A N D.

Dublin, August 24. Their Excellencies the Lords Justices have required and commanded all Officers of his Majesty's Forces, serving in this Kingdom, to repair immediately to their respective Posts.

Yesterday the Dublin Yacht sailed for Holyhead, to bring over his Excellency the Earl of Chesterfield. A Party of the Royal Scots embarked at the same Time on board the said Vessel, as an Escort.

Last Week Mr. Andrew Ryan, Attorney at Law, was thrown from his Horse coming from the Fair of Spanishhill in the County of Clare, and was trampled to Death by other Horses coming after him.

On the 12th of August Inst. was tried at the Assizes at Cork, John Burke, of Derimacloghny, in the County of Galway, Gent. being charged in aiding and abetting Walter Fitzsimons, of Croshaven in the said County of Cork, Gent. for the killing of Owen Sullivan; and were both, to the Satisfaction of the worthy Gentlemen of that Country, honourably Acquitted. This is the second time, within this Year, that the said John Burke has been prosecuted, and tried for his Life, by the Contributions of some evil-minded People, who have an Eye more to his Fortune, than to publick Justice.

On Wednesday last ended the annual Exercises of the Gunners and Bombardiers belonging to the Train, when the Premium for the best Shot was adjudged to Mr. Kelly; and that for the second-best to Mr. McFarran. The same Day some Experiments were made, by Order of the Right Hon. the Lord Viscount Molsworth, Master of the Ordnance, by which it was found, that a Six-pounder, when staked so as to be prevented from Recoiling, ranged her Shot as far, at the same Degree of Elevation, with a Charge of two Pounds of Powder, as with the ordinary Charge of three Pounds, when at liberty to recoil. A Discovery which may prove of much Service, as a great deal of Powder may thereby be saved; and, at the same time, the Discharge made with greater Expedition, and much more Certainty and Exactness.

The English are much shatter'd in their Rigging and Sails; the Captain of the Warren Galley, and one Man, are kill'd, and several wounded. The Spy has only one Man kill'd. The New Ranger, Lawton, with several Ships for the West Indies, are also put into Torbay.

The Cruizer and St. George continued their Cruize. The Revenge was allowed to be the most complete Privateer of her Size fitted out by the French since the War; and has been very successful, having taken 20 Sail of Vessels.

To which is prefixed the LIFE of the Author, newly compiled from Materials more ample and authentic than have yet been published. By Mr. OLDYS.

Sir WALTER RALEIGH's History of the World is a Work of so vast a Compass, such endless Variety, that no Genius, but one adventurous as his own, durst have undertaken that great Design. I do not apprehend any great Difficulty in collecting and common-placing an Universal History from the whole Body of Historians; that is nothing but mechanic Labour. But to digest the several Authors in his Mind, to take in all their Magnificence, Strength, and Beauty, to raise the Spirit of meaner Historians, and to equal all the Excellencies of the best, is Sir Walter's peculiar Praise. His Style is the most perfect, the happiest, and most beautiful, of the age he wrote in; majestic, clear, and manly; and he appears every where so superior, rather than unequal to his Subject, that the Spirits of Rome and Athens seems to be breathed into his Work.
